TRY THIS PROMPT

> “Find five recent studies on [your topic]. For each one, give the study type, the sample size and the DOI. If you can’t verify a source, say so.”

Swap [your topic] for anything from your course.

TOOL 1 OF 5

Connected Papers

A visual map built from a single paper.

WHAT IT DOES

Enter one seed paper and get a graph of related studies, grouped by how often they are cited together.

BEST FOR

Starting from one paper and finding neighbours you didn’t know existed.

FREE TIER

Five free graphs per month; paid plans add more.

Free-tier limits as reported in November 2026. Check each site for current terms.

TOOL 2 OF 5

ResearchRabbit

A library that keeps recommending.

WHAT IT DOES

Collect papers into collections and explore related work and co-authors through citation and author links.

BEST FOR

Building a reading list from many seed papers.

FREE TIER

A free plan with limits, around 50 search inputs; paid plans start near $10 a month.

Free-tier limits as reported in November 2026. Check each site for current terms.

TOOL 3 OF 5

Litmaps

A timeline of the field.

WHAT IT DOES

Places papers on a timeline by publication date and citation count, so you see how the topic developed.

BEST FOR

Following a field over time and spotting recent work.

FREE TIER

Two saved maps on the free plan; alerts and reference-manager sync are on paid plans.

Free-tier limits as reported in November 2026. Check each site for current terms.

TOOL 4 OF 5

Citation Gecko

Let all your papers vote.

WHAT IT DOES

Add several papers you trust and it finds the papers that keep appearing in their citations.

BEST FOR

Filling gaps in a reading list.

FREE TIER

Free and open source.

Free-tier limits as reported in November 2026. Check each site for current terms.

TOOL 5 OF 5

Inciteful

Free, with no account.

WHAT IT DOES

Builds a citation network from your seed papers. Its Literature Connector finds a path between two papers.

BEST FOR

Quick, free exploration, with export to Zotero and Mendeley.

FREE TIER

Completely free, with no sign-up.

Free-tier limits as reported in November 2026. Check each site for current terms.
